

I'm offended:

- that LDS Inc. is more LDS Inc. than church.
- by racism
- by homophobia
- by misogyny
- by sexism that's harmful to both men and women
- by sexual perversion
- that my son was taught to be a literal arm and head-chopping warrior for a supposedly all powerful being
- that JS, a womanizer, sexual predator, child rapist, con artist, philanderer, manipulator, liar, defamer, who ruthlessly disregarded the disrepute he brought upon women he illegally claimed to be his wives, all in the name of God, is praised and glorified by members of TSCC
- by extravagant temples
- by the concept of the widows mite
- by the ignorance fueled arrogance of LDS claims to the path to health via the WoW
- by the concept of licked cupcakes and sexual addiction
- by the concept of post-mortals familial separation based on beliefs
- by ignorant, harmful advice passed on by supposed authorities in the name of "stewardship"
- by abuse in the name of authority
- that women are encouraged to be incapable of providing for themselves and their children
- that men and women are taught to have children before they are fully prepared to care for and provide for them
- by the us vs. them mentality and rhetoric within LDS Inc.
- and so forth....

I love to sin:

- by devoting Sundays to cultivating and nurturing my most valued relationships
- by devoting hours to helping those in need rather than wasting time sitting on my hands praying for people
- by loving without condition of belief or behavior
- by supporting equality (for LGBTAs, women, non-whites, etc.)
- by not kicking my kids out if they are gay or leave the church
- by being grateful to those who actually provided my food rather than praying to god
- by believing my kids are accountable adults when they are accountable adults, not 8 year old kids
- by following my own conscience instead of that of LDS Inc.
- by giving monetary donations to organizations that are transparent, accountable, and help people in need, rather than pursuing capitalist ventures
- by recognizing LDS Profits are men, nothing more
- by openly criticizing LDS Profits when it is appropriate to do so
- by laughing loud and loving life
- and so forth...

Source: I'm offended, I want to sin and I'm happy to admit it. : exmormon